Spirited away

To me the message of this movie is to be who you are and do not forget about your dreams. No matter how much the people around you influence just go for your own goal , work hard for the thing that matters to you.

Gone with the Wind

In this movie, this main character might have some characteristic that are not acceptable in the society. However, i learnt for her courage and persistence. The scene where she as a noble went to ground and dig up a radish makes me feel the endless hope that there is despite being in a situation full of obstacles.

Slumdog Millionaire

The movie inspired me. It makes me believe that the important thing is not of what you have achieved or your social status, but who you are and what kind of person you are the most important things that will lead to a successful and life. Often people look at your background but not who you are. Everyone has the potential to become someone just like the main character in Slumdog Millionaire.
