About Me

I am a creative person and I cannot concibe a single day without being able to get up and freely choose what I want to wear. I really think that the funniest part of fashion is the power to create an imaginary through some pieces of clothing and an attitude

In my opinion, having references is very important and we must stay tuned to everything that surrounds us. Through shapes, colors and different cultures we can extract a message which will end up being developed in our own visual speech by step I keep discovering myself in this world full of imagination. As someone said one day, the most important thing is to be awake.

FASHION DESIGN PROJECTS

WE CAN DO IT

This collection based on the 2nd World War is inspired by those women who fought for well-being. Their role was decisive. They were snipers, spy, pilots and built weapons, ships and tanks. They always were in the rear as they were not allowed to be on the batlefield. In USA, they also altered their occupation as housewives with work in the munitions factories.

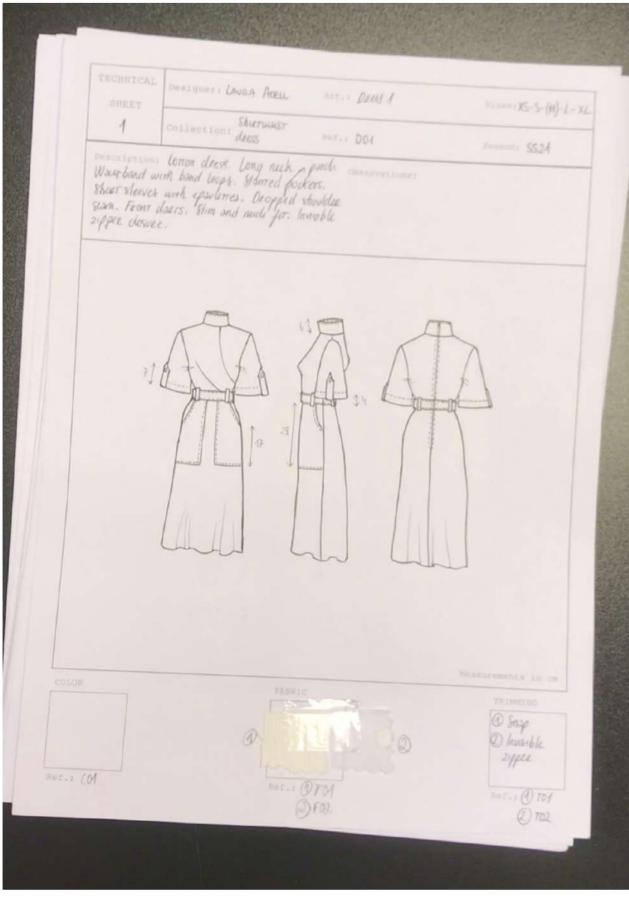

The best known advertising poster of that time was from Rosie, the riveter, and its famous phrase "We can do it". Because there is nothing that woman cannot da

She is self-confident, pasionate and spontaneous. Also adventurous and a lover of truth. These looks welcome a sophisticated imaginary aimed at all those upper-middle class women who like to show of powerful and feminine beauties. With a militar aesthetic, these garments can be used on different occasions. Its mision is to be functional but without losing an iota of elegance, what endows them with a warrior spirit.

SUNNY AFTERNOON

Noble and synthetic fabrics; geometric and colorful prints; casual and sport garments, and intimate and leisure spaces in which those years are appreciated to this spring SS/21 collection is aimed.

On the one hand, I was inspired by the subculture of mods, originating in London in the 60s and highlighted by a philosophy of life that revolves around tailoring fashion, jazz music and the intellect, among other aspects. On the other hand, I focused on the sportswear aesthetic of the 80s, where it is filled with color and shapes as a result of a society in which the influence of music and entertainment was growing.

Sunny afternoon, a song from the mod scene (by The Kinks), reflects the mere concerns of some young people on a sunny summer afternoon. This collection represents, therefore, a current pre-adolescent group that has concerns in its own understanding and contribution in the future, as well as in its appearance, wrapped in a style with a retro air that does not forget its taste for the classic.

Review of a recent fashion show from Alexander

McQueen.

Alexander McQueen or how to reinvent once again

Certainly, if Sarah Burton has done it again is no casualty. The, also, British designer has launched the latest woman collection for autumn - winter 2020/2021 season; and the results are, as from the beginning, impeccable. Recognizing the extravagant and unpredictable style of the late McQueen was never an arduous task for his followers, but the fact of maintaining the essence of a brand is a duty that the aforementioned shows us better than anyone.

Structured blazers, fitted waists, asymmetrical cuts and ruffles were key features that hit this runway in Paris. Puffed sleeves and corolla skirts were also worn; die-cut and embroidery; prints and semi transparencies; although the ultimate role was taken by leather. It was applied to XL boots, to maxi bags, to harness belts and to tailoring and dresses, which gave these looks inspired by the land of Wales a very avant-garde look.

Another point that added value to the collection was the presence of some plus-size models. Well, who said that haute couture was only defended by slim bodies? In addition, the attitudes of all of them were firm and emanated a certain aura of mystery, since: between the jewelry -metalized and heavy-Gothic aesthetic (reminiscent of the main character of the 'Millennium' movie saga) and the red locks in her hair were enough reasons to endow them an indisputable rebellious spirit, whose seal of signature will remain unalterable over the years.

The color palette could not miss black and red, further emphasizing neo-romanticism that McQueen carries as a flag. That which is halfway between the new and the classical is a constant in his creations, and Burton is in charge of recreating them adapting to current trends.

The final work shines with its own light.

I keep working everyday and doing more interesting projects, in order to acquire knowledge and grow as a designer.

THANK YOU.
