

CLINC DESIGN

WAY TO HEALTH

Concept:

When people are in poor health condition and need to visit hospital, because the opportunity cost of being sick nowadays could be unaffordable, majority of them will feel anxious and depressed, which could make the symptoms even worse in some cases. Thus, we would like to design the hospital in a way that replicates the environment of a beach site, where people usually go for a break, relax themselves, and enjoy the peaceful moment of their lives. We hope this new design could help patients regard being in poor health condition as an opportunity to take a break from their busy lives, instead of a troublesome moment with high opportunity cost. We think being able to recreate a relaxing beach environment is not only beneficial for the patients on site to have a better mood during their visits but also provides the staffs a more comforting and less stressful working environment.
