

W o
m e n' s

F o
o
t
w e
a r

FALL/WINTER
2015

We have been covering all the fall/ winter 2015-2016 fashion trends seen on the Fashion Week runways at this point, ranging from New York to Paris, London and Milan. We have looked into the colors and the prints, as well as the general styles of pieces you're going to wear come the cold months. Now, we bring to you the complete fall/ winter 2015-2016 shoe trends report that you have all been waiting for.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Meet The Midi/ The must have boot for fall.....3
Boots For All Ages.....4

Meet Autumn/Winter 2015/ Christian Louboutin.....5
Think Heels, Stars and Laces.....6

High Boots Keep You Warm.....7
Trend: Suede Shoes.....8

MEET THE MIDI—THE MUST-HAVE BOOT FOR FALL

Aldo Shoes

For those of us of the opinion that everything looks better the more leg you show, the midi boot—so-called for its mid-calf height; a slight reach above ankle, a tippie below the knee—can provide a plethora of personal challenges. The midi, you see, might be the one boot in existence that can convince me and my fellow leggy (or leg-proud) brethren into a midi-skirt, those prairie reminiscent-but-somehow-chic shin-sweepers that I always think will look effortless à la an American cowgirl and instead make me feel uniquely dumpy by way of the imagination of Laura Ingalls Wilder. But you see, that's before I met the midi boot. Sliding easily under fall's flared hems, if you're a trouser type, the long-on-personality midi boot is more for your money—more texture, more pattern, more more—and it's officially the must-have for autumn. With python or snakeskin or suede, grommets or shearling or slick calf-skin, why would you want these beauties to end at the ankle?

-vogue.com

Still not convinced? Try a pair with a midi-skirt, and suddenly an expanse of shin (and only shin) becomes something entirely alluring, in the way a flash of wrist or ankle might have caused shockwaves through a Victorian audience. The trick to styling? Find your sweet spot: For those with a bulkier calf, aim for a boot that ends just under the widest part of the muscle. For those with slim limbs, the world is your oyster, but a heel always helps. Still clinging to your minis? Tights will even the whole thing out in a pinch. The moral of the story here? A midi never felt so right. Here, ten of the best for the season ahead.

-vogue.com

C.G.

Aldo Shoes

THE BOOTS FOR ALL AGES

After several seasons of demure ankle boots — from Chelsea to biker styles — the fashion crowd has set its sights a little higher. Knee-high boots were all over the autumn/winter catwalks in a striking variety of shades and shapes, and are now hitting the High Street from a bargain £30 to up to £300 for a high-end pair that will last years. From glitzy evening boots to sturdy suede numbers, it's a classic shape that is practical while still looking sexy. But this is also a style older women often struggle with, for fear of looking more mutton than lamb in the unforgiving shape, which can highlight cankles, wide calves or short legs. Here, 54-year-old Eve Ahmed shows off the boots that work for any woman . . .

Flat shoes can make legs look short and stumpy, as they don't give the same lift as heels — but wearing stilettos all day simply isn't practical. Boots are a brilliant compromise, as a pair that hit just above the knee will make legs look longer. This pair are great, as they have adjustable buckles, so they can easily be altered to make them the perfect size.

- thedailymail.co.uk

C.G.

Aldo Shoes

Clarks

MEET AUTUMN/WINTER 2015 COLLECTION BY CHRISTIAN LOUBOUTIN

FALL/WINTER THAT WE SELECTED FOR YOU FROM THE FASHION SHOWS AND THEN LET US KNOW WHICH ONE CAUGHT YOUR EYES?

A blast from the past! Christian Louboutin's Autumn/Winter 2015 collection turns back the clock on several eras of style, from the sixties, to grunge, to techno. Influenced by the exotic, the bold, the sensual, and the irreverent, the line introduces new colours, textures, and technical innovations with the detail and craftsmanship that are emblematic of the Louboutin brand.

Who says punk is dead? Adorned with leather spikes in black, nude, and baby blue, Electro Pump and Electroboot take rocker chic to new heights. Saudade and Faolo Boot bring out the grunge, adorned in spiky metallic cones from the Louboutin archives.

Powerful women continue to influence Christian's work, and this season, the lady is a vamp! Dangerous curves give way to sharp silhouettes of supple, shapely leather on Vampydolly and Sweet Charity, embellished with tantalizing black fringe. The seduction continues in transparency and five different types of lace on slinged and strappy pumps like Marinaden-tella, Follies Lace, and Oolala, styles that evoke the sensuality of lingerie.

-www.ll2.in

www.cunningbailey.com

C.D.F.

THICK HEELS, STRAPS AND LACES

White. You want something different from the usual autumn colors? Try with a shoe candid as the snow! Besides being super cool in the middle of the winter, it has the advantage of being per-

If Chanel brings back its iconic sling backs, then you can't do nothing but surrender to reality: this season we'll have to behave! The coolest shoes of the season are in fact bon ton with low and chunky heel, perfect to be worn from morning to evening.

Paul Smith

Lace-ups. Just like gladiator sandals and ankle strapped shoes in general they've been one of the summer's must haves, so the coolest shoes of the season continue the trend with pumps, boots and lace-up boots. Super sexy and absolutely super cool!
-Francesca Zaccagnini

Yve

Saint Laurent

C.D.F.

HIGH BOOTS KEEP YOU WARM

Whether classic or edgy, this full-coverage footwear can be comfortable and chic. Here's what you need to know about wearing boots in any season. Why do we love boots so much? They can have a rugged country look, an equestrian vibe, or a sleek urban air. On chillier days, they make dresses and skirts wearable. They also give polish to jeans and add a down-to-earth feel to more delicate pieces. Boots increase the versatility of your clothes, and every woman should have a pair or two.

Tall boots are perfect for fall and winter days. They allow you to get wear out of your lighter dresses and skirts when it's cold. Put them in the back of your closet when the temperatures start to rise, though; they look out of place in hot weather.

-Sean Cunningham

ALDO SHOES

TREND ALERT: HOW TO WEAR COMBAT BOOTS

When it comes to fall shoe shopping, our philosophy is that you can never have enough pairs—especially boots. From heeled booties, flat cut-outs or over-the-knee boots we've seen them all this season, but we're especially loving combat boots, which appear to be the new Birkenstocks.

The beauty of both trends is that the original brands benefited from the fashion resurgence—Birkenstocks were the buzz of the style set, and now it seems Docs are also enjoying a new, fashion-forward customer who are finding new ways to wear them that aren't only rooted in punk, rock, or grunge.

If you've already selected your coat for the season, then it's time for some fab footwear. Since no fall look is complete without a pair of amazing boots, this week we bring you the lace-up combat boot. Whether you're prim and proper or a gal with a penchant for the punky, a pair of combat boots is your perfect winter option. It's not only one of the coolest looks of the season, but also a timeless staple you'll be able to wear for years to come. Check out these looks that will leave you armed and ready for winter.

- Nashmina Lakhani

J.L.

ALDO SHOES

TREND: SUEDE SHOES

MICHAEL KORS

Suede has come a long way since its '70s heyday, showing up in everything from clothing to accessories on the fall 2015 runways. Incorporating suede shoes into your wardrobe is the perfect way to add some subtle, luxurious texture to give your look a little extra oomph. Worn in classic neutral tones or in an unexpected pop of color, here's how you can sport this on-trend material.

On the runways this season, suede was most often incorporated in bright, bold hues. The Michelle pump in a bright red suede gives a fashion-forward pop of color and works particularly well with your favorite LBD. For a more casual look, the Joyce flats in on-trend burgundy, olive, or taupe suede add richness and depth, along with a polished metallic detail on the vamp. In the traditional suede fabric and toe of a moccasin, the Kaster loafers, in a deep red, gray, or navy, make on-trend weekend style a breeze.

-Nancy, A Naturalizer Blogger

SLIP-ON SNEAKERS ON TREND FOR WINTER

Good news for your feet: Sneakers are everywhere this fall. Fashion insiders and celebs alike are sporting athletic shoes with their chicest outfits, making them an essential fall fashion trend. With an abundance of styles in stores right now, it might seem daunting to find the pair that's right for you.

The revival of this sporty and comfortable shoe took the fashion world by the storm, even being street-style snapped on the global fashion week circuit this past AW14 season. We have seen the slip-ons worn many ways, but one of the strongest looks is a completely monochromatic ensemble made up of a skirt or pant and a modernist boxy top or blouse.

We hope you are inspired to rock the trend with some of our favorite street style shots.

- Visual therapy blog/ Glamour.com

MICHAEL KORS