

Melissa Pacheco Gomez

Fashion Designer

About Me ...

My name is Melissa Pacheco, sometimes I'm nicknamed as "Meme" in a jocular way. I was born and raised in the Beautiful city of Barranquilla, Colombia; where I successfully finished my Elementary, Middle & High School studies; and I'm currently finishing my Degree of Fashion Design & Pattermaking at LCI Barranquilla (LaSalle College International).

I'm fluent in English and also I'm a level B1 in French (I mostly understand Reading, and medium to basic knowledge in Writing and Speech). I'm really good with numbers and I also enjoy very much reading and writing.

I decided to pursue a career in fashion because since I was a little girl I always found myself coloring in all my classes, mostly clothes and accessories, and as time passed I developed a really big interest in pursuing a career in fashion in all the fields possible, not only design & pattermaking, but I will also like to master myself in the future in the Production, Marketing & Business of fashion.

Plataforma K 2016

Plataforma K is the biggest Resort wear Fair in the Colombian Caribbean. Around 18 Fashion Designers and 60 models were what made this important fair possible; This year's theme was called "Endless Summer". I had the opportunity to be part of the Staff & Model assistant crew of this important event, not only on the fashion shows, but also in the press and business group, in which I also worked for the Camara de Comercio de Barranquilla, and for INforma Models, the best Model Agency in the country.

Fashion Assistant

Daniella Batlle

I had my first fashion Experience during my sixth quarter of College, by working with the Prestigious Caribbean Fashion Designer Daniella Batlle.

Daniella bases her brand purely on her original prints and textures, they compose the whole structure of her designs; She has her main Boutique in the city of Barranquilla, Colombia (place where I worked), and she recently opened a new boutique in Bogota, Colombia, The capital of the country; and also, she distributes in many departments store around the country & also internationally.

Working with Daniella Batlle gave me a whole new experience of what I thought the fashion world was. Since she's also a graduate from the LCI Network, she was thrilled when I came over asking for an internship, and we got along really well when it came to design, trends and pattern language. I worked with her on the SS17 Collection, which its inspiration were the Russian Matryoshka dolls; we extracted the richness of their colors, patterns, and different figures; and created a collection never before seen in Baranquilla.
